

Amy Proatas
NBCU

ABOUT ME

- Born and raised in Rochester NY
- Moved to Madison in the summer of 2012
- BS in mathematics University of Dayton
- MS in statistics/educational leadership University of Dayton
- Became Nationally Board Certified in 2017

SCHEDULE

FALL	SPRING
Pre-AP Precalculus	AP Statistics
Planning and office hours	Planning
Pre-AP Precalculus	AP Statistics
Pre-AP Precalculus	AP Statistics

CONTACT INFORMATION

EMAIL:

arprotos@madisoncity.k12.al.us

PHONE: (256) 216-5313

- I have been teaching at James Clemens since the fall of 2012. Before that I taught for 5 years at Jamesville Dewitt High School in NY, and 12 years in Kettering, OH before that!
- I am a very proud mom of three daughters
- I am passionate about mathematics and statistics, in particular!
- I will do everything in my power to help you learn, but the bottom line...this is your education, so you must take responsibility for your own learning
- Although this year is starting different than usual, I truly believe that learning to deal with the unexpected is a much bigger life lesson than any math objective I could teach. In math and science, trial and error is key to being successful. That is the approach I am taking this year. Nothing is set in stone. And we all have to be ready to roll with the changes. Our attitude during this time will determine our success. Let's make it the best year yet!

