PROFILE

COMMUNITY

Madison, AL. serves one of the fastest growing cities in the southeastern United States. Madison is known for high quality schools and academic recognition from all grade-levels. Now its newest high school, James Clemens, can partake in academic excellence. The population in Madison city is over 48,000 people and continually growing. At JCHS participation in activities such as JROTC, Peer Helpers, JCHS Ambassadors, Honor Societies, Service Clubs, Athletics, and other electives will assist students with their responsibilities for community contribution locally and on a state-level.

HIGH SCHOOL

JCHS is a 21st century high school that portrays an environment where all participants build and share leadership capacity at all levels of the organization. This cutting edge school will provide a blend of core academic experiences giving students a rich and diverse learning experience that prepares them for a globally connected world. Career Technology Education Academies are in place with emphasis on Medical and Health Sciences, Engineering, Business, Finance, Human Services, Computer Science, Arts – A/V Technology and Communications, Building Construction, JROTC, and Work-Based Learning.
